MURDER AT WARSAW .- On Tuesday night, James Hendreu was shot and instantly killed, in he bar room of the Commercial Hotel, at Warsaw, by Thomas M. Lillard. The testimony before the Grand Jury was, that Lillard had told Hendren that he (II.) should not drink at the same time that he (Lillard) did. During the evening, Hendreu came into the bar-room of the Comnercial Hotel, and took a drink. Lillard was there, and remarked to a friend, that Hendren and been following him all day, and asked how much longer he (L.) ought to stand it. The friend told Lillard that his father was rich, and would see him through, and that he would not stand it any longer, were he in his (Lillard's) place. Lillard remarked, "If he comes in here again, I will shoot hun." In five or ten minutes lendren came in at the door, and Lillard drew a pistol and shot him through the head. The Grand Jury, which was in session at the time, found a true bill against Lillard for murder. WATER COGLERS, BATH TUBS, The State was ready to go into trial, and so was case was continued. Lillard is now in jail.

Claude Melnotte, last night, embraced many striking points, and was a personation altogether worthy of the power he has manifested in other characters. It was good, though not by any means to be compared to his Hamlet, or his Camester. Miss De Courcy gave a very fair representation of Pauline. She has not phisique nough for the line of characters she undertakes, out does very well, and leaves but little to wish for in her personations. She is very earnest and lesirous of plessing, and we do not wish to be oo critical in regard to her efforts. To-night Mr. Sullivan takes his benefit in 'Richelieu," and "Taming the Shrew," two very good points, as every one knows. Miss De Coury will personate Julie and Catherine. Between he pieces there will be a dance, by Mr. Gilbert imized yesterday on the Jacob Strader by a disressed individual, who was going as far as Madison with his sister, and had not money enough to ony their passage. Greeney, who was going to he same place, kindly advanced Sharp $10 on an elegant watch, with the distinct understanding hat he was to sell it for $12 when they arrived at Madison. The watch was worth about $2 50. LOUISVILLE, KY.,

Mr. McLeland, the tax-collector of the Western District, says that his drawer was broken To which he would call the attention of the open last week and tax receipts taken out, but none of them had his signature to them. It is possible, therefore, that the thief will have a hard mc if he wants to use them at the coming election. The forging of signatures, at $1 50 each, won't pay. It would have been better to have paid for the receipts. But let thore he sharp watch for signatures at the election, for there is no tellng whether the thief was after money or after oters when the drawer was opened and the receipts stolen. A gang of counterfeiters has recently been broken up in Essex county, New York. Upon the person of one of the prisoners was found a book containing the rules and regulations of the "Mystic Circle of Alchemy," but principally deroted to an explanation of the processes of galvanism and electrotyping. It is supposed that the book bas been very widely circulated, and nany of the most respectable farmers of Essex and the adjoining counties are suspected of having abandoned their bonest labor for the manufacture of bogus coin.

Some of the "sensation newspapers" in New York have gratified their readers, since the Sickles tragedy, with portraits of the persons most concerned. An old cut of Piccolomini has, in one instance, done service for Mrs. Sickles; in another a picture of Jenny Lind has been put to the same use. Mr. Sickles and Mr. Butterworth have been representated by the pictures of two celebrated murderers. The portrait of Mr. Alfred Bnnn, the London manager, has been offered as

T. J. Dryer, Esq., editor of the Oregonian, has been unfortunate in a fight. He was in fact ter ribly beaten by a party of ruffians, the principa of whom was one Lasater. We quote a portion of Dryer's description of the fight: We both fell upon some opened shoe boxes, Lasater on top, still grasping our throat. After a few blows he inserted the thumb of his right hand into our left eye, and forced it almost entirely from its socket. At this time, hy a desperate and superhuman effort, we released his grasp from our throat, and his thumh from the eye, and fell upon the floor. Lasater then seized has but he hear and the floor. Lasater then seized us by the hair and attempted to gouge our other eye out, which we prevented by turning our face close to the floor and locking our fingers and pressing our hands to our eyes. After several fruitless efforts to in-sert his thumb into our right eye, he again com-menced pounding us on the back of the head with his fist. * * * * * * * * *

The only aid and comfort we bad was the vociferous yells of "Give him hell!" "Dig his damned eyes out!" "Go in Lasater!" etc., etc.

After we snpposed they might be satisfied with the beating they had given us, we requested that he should be taken off, which was done.

Mr. Dryer was not so successful as Long John Wentworth, who happily "warded off" a blow by a strong man with a stout hickory stick, "with our head." Neither was he so adroit as John Phonix, who "inserted our nose" into the Colonel's mouth, "for the purpose of holding him

The Fourth Congressional District.

Temoleon Cravers, Esq., has written a letter in which he withdraws his name from consideration n connection with the selection of a proper canlidate for Congress in his district. Mr. C. is a high-toned, talented gentleman, and would make a first-rate Representative; but he helieves it to be undignified to seek a uomination for an office, and he is too good a Democrat to hazard the harmony of his party hy suffering his name to go hefore a convention. Every merchant who deals in flour, every baker and every miller in our city, signed that petition; and every consumer would have signed it had it been resented and explained to them, but that would not have strengthened the petition as it is not numbers so much as intelligence that should be regarded. The Council, whose object it should be to govern our city in the best manner possible, have disregarded the manufacturer's interest by imposing a nonvensical tax of three cents per harrel on every harrel of flour he makes, and inflicting impediments and delays to his business in the process of carrying out this absurd and foolish operation. They have not protected the interest of either haker or consumer, as they have permitted this onerous tax of three cents to be levied on every harrel there tax of three cents to be levied on every barrel they use, besides taking therefrom sufficient to sustain a family a day, or to judge of the quality of one nundred barrels, if that was the object, and the poor man's interest was considered. The Sickles-Key Affair. From a letter from Washington to the N. Y Times respecting the Sickles-Key affair, we extract the following:

The guilty connection of Mr. Key with Mrs. Sickles will, I understand, he admitted, to avoid disclosures injurious to the memory of Mr. Key; and the argument of the prosecution will be directed to examine whether the existence of such a criminal connection excuses the slaying of the seducer by the husband's hand, and whether Mr. Sickles committed the act under the extennating influences of an examplanting conviction of this influences of an exasperating conviction of this fact. If precedents are of value it will be difficult for the prosecution to sustain their side of the case. It is but a short time since that, in the case. It is but a short time since that, in the neighboring State of Virginia, a certain Mr. Myers proceeded to the bed room of a man from whom he had sustained a similar injury, and shot him while in bed. Public opinion justified, and a jury acquitted him without leaving the box. Again, in this very city, and but within the last two years, a young man from near the Navy Yard, called on the seducer of his sister and demanded the reparation of a marriage for the injured girl. called on the seducer of his sister and demanded the reparation of a marriage for the injured girl, which, being refused, he shot the seducer. Public opinion justified, and a jury acquitted him without leaving the box. Nor are such precedents confined to this country. Lord Napier has stated it as his belief that in England, if the criminal connection be of the character stated, no jury could be found to convict the husband.

In France precedents of recent origin are not wanting. In 1849, a M. Baraby received an anonymous communication informing him that a Cettlegon in the attempt, an encounter took place, from which the seducer managed to escape. M. Raraby seizing a pistol followed him, and meeting on the stairs, not M. Cettlegon, but a correspondent of the London News, who had been visiting a friend in the same house fixed at heen visiting a friend in the same honse, fired at him in his extreme rage, and shot him through the jaw. The case was trued hefore one of the first jurists of France, the father of the Comte de Trelbard, now Secretary of the French Legation 40,000 francs of damages to the innocent person whom the enraged husband had wounded. And but little more than a year ago, when a lady of rank in one of the provinces requested an old and attached family servant to shoot a scoundred who had boasted of sedncing her daughter, and the deed was actually done, a French jury acuitted both the injured mother and the gardener, the had adopted her injury as his own.

Mr. Sickles' case was stronger far than these.—

Mr. Sickles' case was stronger for than these. Not only was his home dishonored, but that dishonor was inflicted with a reckless disregard of decency, which had made the disgrace the common talk of the city. Not in a noment of hot passion, when the rebellious blood might override the hetter feelings, was the deep wrong done, but a house was co-lly bired for the hastest uses to which it could he put, and Mr. Sickles' wife dragged through the lowest hannts of infamy to to which it could be put, and Mr. Sickles' wi dragged through the lowest hannts of infamy gratily the vilest instincts of degraded passion. And when this dishonor, this repeated, reiterated dishonor was made clear to him; clear by the most unanswerable proof; c ear by the confession of his wife; and amid the grief and agony which the horrid discovery brought upon his home, the hushand saw opposite to his window the man who had desolated that home, and who had who had desorated that heme, and who had stained the future of his child, finning, as it were, in his very face, the signal that called his wife to infamy—how many men, claiming no pharisaical superiority over their fellows, will say, that at such a moment—as a cold-hlooded calculator in some New York evening paper lays it down. Mr. Sichles should here taken it down-Mr. Sickles should have taken his seat to study the code of the du llo, and ascer-tain how Mr. Key was to be got rid of, according to the strict letter of its laws; or, as another punc him, and then calmly bring him down the first time they met'lt seems to be forgotten that when, in that rooment of fury, Mr. Sickles rushed out to kill Mr. Barton Key, he staked his own life, too. his free Mr. Barton key, he staked masown me, too.—

The Opposition Platform-No. VII. The last half of plank No. 6 in the Opposition platform should have been separated from the first, and should have been numbered seven instead of six, and been headed, "It is an Anti-Bank Party," or something to that effect. We have taken the liberty of so dividing the monster, and shall now proceed to give its last half, having given the first in the preceding article. The latter end of the concern is as follows:

Some twenty years ago, the Democracy found National and State banks a great power in the land not under the direct influence or control of the party. To remove this inconvenience it broke down the National Bank, and instituted the notorious pet hank system, with a Democratic promise to give the nation a "better currency." In a few years the banks all exploded and the system with them, giving, as the result of that Democratic experiment, the worst currency ever known, and experiment, the worst currency ever known, and the most wide-spread commercial disaster and ruin ever witnessed. The national loss to traders, manufacturers, and business men of all were moderately computed by the han-

The Democracy then told the nation that it must take care of itself in the matter of its cur-rency; that the l'emocracy would render it no aid but that of a good example. It proclaimed its intention to cut the Government entirely loose from all connection with the nation's business currency; make it a purely hardmoney Govern-ment; which was effectively to restrain undue ex-pansions and in every event enable the Governnent to transact its own great business in hard money and in that alone.

Uninfluenced by the example no State adepted the experiment, but all made more banks, which, influenced by the panacea, expanded more than they had ever done, and there occurred one of those suspensions which seem to be part of the law of the existence of State banks. After the lapse of a few months, the banks resumed specie payments, and the nation and the State governments have ever since enjoyed a redeemable cur-rency equal to specie, whilst the Federal govern-ment has been compelled to resort to a paper circulation of inconvertible treasury notes, which culation of inconvertible treasury notes, which the Secretary of the Treasury tells us must be kepl up for two years longer.

This experiment having utterly failed in all its promised advantages, the Democracy promptly steps forward and offers the nation the benefit of till another experiment. It saves through its organ, the President, that the States are too leniest towards their banks, and hence their under expansion; only place them under Democratic their type surely bring on revulsions. If there there are the second of the same of the second of the second of the same of the second of the secon control, let them live in salutary fear of inexora ble Federal rigor, and there will be no more sus-pensions. Only give us a bankrupt law against and railroads, and you have our assurance dently to incur debts. But should these just expectanons fail, should the banks and railroads fail to act, then they are to have inexorable law, their property and that of their debuors, including the whole trading community, shall be brought under the sacrificing hammer of Federal officials, and thus "the equilibrium restored," that is the rapid adjustment of all debts at whatever sacrifices of property the experiment may require.

The nation has long been fully aware, as much as Mr. Buchanan or his Scoretary of the Treasury can make them, that a periodical suspension is ne of the unavoidable accompaniments of its tate bank system. But great as that evil is, it is not comparable to the evil of making our banks and railroads dependent upon the smiles and frowns of Federal Democratic rulers for a lenient or vigorous enforcement of a bank rupt law. Nor does the evil compare with what would ensue trom the honest, vigorous enforcement of such a law at a time of general suspension, in the una ting upon this theme. It is his early, only love : voidable sacrifice of every trader's or business it fills his thoughts by day and his dragges by man's property.

The nation needs no experiment to tell what would be the result of a sudden enforcement by naw of all individual debts. Every one ought to know that an almost universal hankruptcy would be the result. That the Democracy would be sufficiently inexorable in such a crisis may well be allowed. Whilst the nation was writing under the effects of the "hetter currency" experi-ment, the wail of woo which it sent up to Demo-cratic headquarters, was curtly answered with memorable apothem: "All who trade on credit deserve to break. Put the power in the hands of the Democracy, and it may be relied on to carry out this, its maxim. As little will the nation be inclined to confide to the inexorable Democracy the power of needlessly breaking up those very benefic ial institutions, our railroads, by a sudden vigorous enforcement of their dehts.

Perhaps no one of the charges put forth against the Democratic party by the great Sanhedrim of the elite, required a greater amount of impudence for its enunciation than the char ge of corruption. That such a charge should come from such a gathering of the odds and ends of disorganized factions is sufficiently ridiculous; but when they bottle of Bærhave's Holland Bitters, belleving it would cite the destruction of the United States Bank, and the adoption of the Sub-Treasury system, as two sbining instances of corruption, absurdity reaches its climax.

These fossil remains of an extinct race of politicians cannot be made to see or understand anything that has transpired in the last thirty years. They once swore the horse was sixteen feet high, and they mean to stick to it. When General Jackson vetoed the United States Bank, they swore roundly that the wheels of Government and the affairs of commerce could not go on without such an institution. A generation has passed away since then, and experience has most signally falsified their predictions, but has H. T. HELMDOLD—Dear Nir. I have been trombled with an smiletton of the Bladder and Kidneys for over twenty years. I have tried Physiolans in vain, and at last concluded to give your Genuine Preparation a trial, as I had heard it highly spoken of. It afforded me immediate relief. I have used three bottles, and I have obtained more relief from its effects, and feel much better than I have for twensy years previous. Lewistows, Ps. Jan. 28, 1857.

Rhould any doubt Mr. McCormick's slatement, he refers to the following gentlemen: brought no wisdom to their councils. They believe now as they believed then, that it is not possible to get along without a United States Bank. They belong to a class who never, learn from experience. If it were possible to embalm one of them, and lay him away in lavender and cologue for a couple of hundred years, and then recall him to life, the first thing he would do would be to swear that the country couldn't possibly exist five years longer without a bank the United States, a high protective tariff of the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands. and his ideas down to the present age. Now, as when Pope wrote-"Old politicians chew on wisdom past. And totter on in biunders to the last."

Wisdom will die with them, they honestly believe, but whether the nation will be inconsolable for its death is problematical. They don't like to own themselves as antiquated as they really are and falsify history as to dates and periods. They say: Some twenty years ago the Democracy found National and State banks a great power in the land not under the direct influence or control of the party. To remove this inconvenience, it broke down the National Bank, and instituted the notorious pet bank system."

Thie Vesper Gas Light has won for itself a reputation for elegance, economy, safety and simplicity, far beyond any other artificial light. The Vesper Gas flame and fixtures precisely resemble in form those of coal gas, but in brilliancy and purity of light, it possesses a decided advantage over even Louisville coal gas. It requires no chimney; there is no need of daily trimming of wick; and the construction of the fixtures is so simple that it is not liable to get out of order, and a child can manage it readily. The gas burnt in the Vesper fixtures is generated from pure coal oil, without any admixture of alcohol or other foreign ingredient. It is entirely free from odor while burning, a, by a simple contrivance, the vapor of the oil is mixed with the atmosphere, producing perfect combustion and a most intense light. The Vesper Gas light is portable, and can be used in town or country—in fact, wherever artificial light is required. Each chandelier is perfect in itself; there is no outlay to be made for service pipes. The gas is generated in the hurner, and all fixtures, from the cheap single light hurner to the expensive chandelier, are miniature gas works in themselves. They are sold at prices which do not exceed the cost of ordinary gas fixtures of similar styles and ornamentation. A price list will be sent to any address on application.

LYON'S MAGNETIC POWDERS,

Will destroy Garden Insocts, Cockroaches, BedBugs, Fleas Anis Moths, and all pests of the vormin kind.

The importance of a reliable article of this kind is inestimable. In warm weather all nature teems with these annoying foes. This powder is the only article ever discovered which will exterminate them. A company of botanists, from the Horticultural Society of Paris, while amidst the ferns of Asia, observed that all insects lighting upon a certain kind of plant very soon dropped dead.
This fact was made use of to guard their night camps from these intruders. Quantitles of the plant were brought home by Mr. E. Lyon, and found a positive insect destroyer in every experiment. It is simply a powdered lesf, chemically prepared to resist the effect of age and climate. Medals and Letters Patent have been obtained from the Governments of England, France, Germany, and Russia, from the World's Fair, and numerous medical and horticultural colleges, and socielies.
Letters from the President of the United States. R. ULLMAN, Director and Lessee of the New York Academy of Music, respectfully informs the public that, for the purpose of carrying out his grand schemes of sending every artist of celebrity engaged by him for the Opera llouses of New York, Philadelphia and Bos ton, to every place of note in the Union, he has made arrangements with Now under engagement to him, for a rapid tour through the principal cities of the Union, prior to their departure or Europe. The Kate Howard was built here, and has just been re-fitted and re-furnished for a season's campaign, the outfit being furnished by the house

The Interchange was caught and tied up at Cucionati by the Marshal on the suspicion of debt, and it is probable she will be sold. The arrivals at New Orleans, Monday, were the Eclipse, E. H. Fairchild, Choctaw, Maria Denning and Jesse K. Bell.

The magnificent Diana, Capt. Sturgeon, left New Orleans Monday evening for this port, and by a special dispatch we learn that she was at Vickeburg early Wednesday. Capt. Sturgeon telegraphes that she will arrive Sunday—less than air days out. than six days out. The Diana returns to New Orleans on Wednesday, the 23d.

A coal boat, belonging to the Messis. Wat-son, was sunk at New Orleans on the 7th, by col-lision with the dry dock at Algiers.

The John Gault, for Mashville, last night, had the most miscellaneous cargo, and the largest of the sort we have seen for some time.
